

Difficult Beds of Survival

Abstract

Dystopian literature portrays the anti utopia. It is a vision of a future that is corrupted and against the utopian society. Dystopia is a literary word coined by English philosopher John Stuart mill .He defined dystopia a "bad place" in 1868. John Stuart mill was inspired by Thomas Moore's writing on utopia. Rokeya Sakhawat Hossain sultana's dream is a best feminist utopian society .In early century the condition of women is very harsh but now a days with the advanced technology the condition has been changed and the outlook is positive in terms but the condition for non working women are still the same. The theme of appearance versus reality is the burning issue of present time. Dystopia is a representation of reality and utopia symbolizes appearance.

Introduction

Sometimes I feel what god has made for me not here then where I got thee,

This is the time, this is the time everyone told me but again I struggle in between thee,

Why nobody understands what I need but time will come, it will come where I grasp glee,

I fight for them, I fight for self but there is someone who stops me not to rage with thee,

I weep, I wail I could not see the glee then console not to be gloomy destiny has something written by thee,

Counted every star every rays of it, very difficult again to come back and raise it as it is thee,

Once I asked to share life with me she smiled and said it to me.

I stopped fighting for people who gossiped about me.

I stopped fighting for people who has a lot of expectation about me.

I stopped fighting for people to prove they were not right about me.

Then I realized life is a journey that has to be travelled no matters how bad the beds of accommodations provided to you by thee.

There is an echo not to touch the inner flesh of thee Runs and runs even in hiccups like alarming bell to thee,

The sound from inner self come and she listens none but run like a gun as time goes out wait for none,

Life is going on day by day and we are left to decay this suppression leads to depression don't allow to remain as a clay,

Stand up don't hesitate to remain like a stay it is your time to make night into day,

Suffering is a part of reality doesn't become the victim of decay. There is someone near you who can give you everlasting gay.

As Existentialisms philosophy reflected absurdity and chaos in society. In fiction 'waiting for Godot' written by Samuel Beckett two men Vladimir and Estragon were waiting for Godot and Godot never comes .Continuous waiting is the theme that prevails in that story. In the respective poem theme of craving for success and urge to meet God prevails everywhere. Life is a mixture of flowers and thorns but it is the need of hour to meet the situations of life with acceptance with glee. A time waits for none. So it is required to keep one's pace as fast as the waves of the stream.

Aim of the Study

This paper presents to bring out the crux of life that in this Earth every human has Pre-destiny; it is a belief that all circumstances are determine in advance by the supreme power or divine. There is a ray of optimistic outlook where the reality is revealed in a way that there is no need to prove human beings about the deed done. Moreover action speaks louder than words. As time is very precious and it waits for none. It is required one should not lose hope in adverse period although the bridge between the success and failure is far away to reach.

Main Text

Every human being has to live their life whether they are happy or not with it .It is the curiosity of every being to know the plans of God made for them for future and the quest of divinity is always hovering around their mind .The sense of hope and optimism helps being to wait patiently for everything happened in life. It is said that vices attract the faculty of mind more easily than the virtues. God has already planned our destiny and whatever one does will get back in terms of 'Karma' .In Buddhist philosophy the cycle of birth is determined by karma which means action. Sometimes a person feels to fight with the world of living then again the sublimity comes in their way to stop the anger that grows in mind to kill animosity .In life there are two phases of coin : one is easy going life and another is life full of struggle. But the actual fact of universe is meaninglessness of actions and it is shown in the myth of Sisyphus by Albert Camus. It is useless to fight with the backbiters because backbiters do their Karma and if the other person does the same there shall be no difference between evildoers. It is not necessary to think about "what other person thinks about them?" This question estrangles the inner self of a person to create novel ideology. In mythology also human beings are concerned with God because he has to answer the questioning of god not human beings. In other words, the journey of life is just like a cycle that runs by the hands of god. It is a cycle that every passenger has to go through it. Whether the circumstances are against or in favor of his destiny. There is another concept of time that is every sensitive in nature but it can even kill the high waves. Hope is the ultimate mantra that never decreases the pace of human beings. The more toil, the more success one can get. The success knocks the door of hard worker as time waits for none.

Conclusion

God is a supreme authority. Life is like a stage every individual performs his karma and then has to return back to his actual home or has to exist the stage from his role. It is a belief that humans get attracted more easily towards vices than virtues. The ultimate mantra of life is hope and optimistic outlook in order to conquer the world.
